REPORT OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

---

DISTRICT No. 1.

Edith Woodbury was the teacher for the summer term, and although it was her first attempt, she displayed those abilities that we think are gained mostly by experience, and at the examination there was a marked improvement.

Jennie M. Shattuck taught the fall and winter terms; a teacher of wide experience, she labored hard for the welfare of her pupils, many of whom showed marked improvement in their answers and work on the blackboard.

Primary Department.

Susie M. Henderson taught this department during the entire year with her usual success and ability; we regret that her services cannot be secured for another year.

Grammar School.

George K. Wood was the instructor in this school the past year, one of the best and most successful teachers in town; the results of his and his pupils' labors were clearly shown at the examinations at the end of each term.

DISTRICT No. 4.

Lukewarmness seems to describe the condition of this school as well as any term we can think of. For aught we know the scholars are generally healthy (physically), or might, or ought to be, if coasting, in defiance of the town fathers, and other out-door sports would conduce to that result; nor do we mean that there are no exceptions to a lack of intellectual or moral health. But we fear that many of our teachers forget, at times, their responsibility for the behavior and morals of children all the time while about the grounds. Hazing should be vigorously dealt with, and no child should be deprived of their just rights on account of nationality, indifferent clothing or any other reason.

Miss Emma L. Pettee, who has an excellent record, both inherited and acquired, as a teacher, took charge of the school the first term. Music, we are glad to say, formed a prominent feature of instruction. The register shows too many absences of scholars to make the best showing of results possible.

As Miss Pettee has a louder call in another direction, Mrs. M. M. Woodbury, a teacher of large experience, was selected to fill the position the remaining terms. But as bad habits are more easily formed than broken, it were too much to expect an entire reformation in a single term or year. At the close we were glad to note, however, a move in the right direction.

DIVISION 5.

The number of children within the limits of No. 5 at the time the Board made up the program and assigned the teachers was so small that it was thought advisable to furnish the few with privileges elsewhere; but just previous to the commencing the summer terms, there was such an incoming in parts remote from the school house that to have a school was a necessity, and Mrs. Cora L. Lord, who, although engaged in other duties for the past two years, had not entirely forgotten how to rule and impart, was put in charge. The fact that she taught three terms should be proof that satisfaction was given.

DIVISION 6.

The summer term was in charge of Maud H. Sleeper, a member of the district; a good scholar, apt to teach, and not confined to the text-book. The school was small, too small, to be interesting; but those attending were punctual and made good improvement. The limited number of scholars within reasonable distance of the school house precluded the idea of holding but one term in this district. During the fall and winter those living in the southern part of the district were cared for at No. 5, and Mrs. Clara E. Sleeper attended to the wants of one little one in the extreme north in a satisfactory manner.

DISTRICT No. 7.

A new generation is coming upon the stage here, and it seemed fitting that the old house with its uncouth furnishings should give way to a thorough renovation.

Miss Emma Dunklee, whose past services for two years had seemed satisfactory, was again entrusted with the helm. We believe somewhat in "environments," and the idea seemed to be confirmed by the appearance of the school the past year.

Miss Dunklee's faculty for energy and order was plainly apparent. We vote the school a success.

DISTRICT No. 8.

Miss Anna E. Barrett, a resident of the district, was chosen with the approval of parents of scholars, to conduct the school.

Although her first experience, Miss Barrett developed many excellent traits, justifying the confidence placed in her, and we doubt not will in time be found worthy to occupy a wider field.

Two obstacles seem to be in the way of the highest development of our school system. A corps of teachers trained and devoted to the work and pensioners, if need be, when superannuated. "Get the best." Conduct the business on business principles, as we do every thing else, to secure the best results.

The other is: The almost impossibility of assembling all the children in town, under three or four grades, with as many teachers, each thoroughly competent in his or her department.

And when society becomes awake to the fact that it is economy to spend more money for promoting intelligence and morality, and, consequently, less for prisons and reformatories, we shall see something done in that direction.
